Hello ENG 352 Students,
Welcome to Technical Writing. I hope you are enjoying your semester break and resting up for our exciting new Spring semester.

You have registered for a unique section of Technical Writing. Our eLearning course is developed around a sustainability theme that will require real writing projects that will work towards providing sustainable solutions to NJIT campus problems. These kinds of projects will help your career path and look great on a resume. But they will also require real work. In addition, this section has a textbook (available at the bookstore, but not expensive):

Required reading:

The Technical Communication Handbook, Laura Gurak and Mary Hocks, Pearson, 2009, 0-321-36507-0

If you are not up to the challenge of this section, perhaps you might want to withdraw and register for another section of this course. I am very excited about teaching this course, and I want to have students enrolled who are equally interested.

Please join the course in Moodle at <http://njit.mrooms.net/>

Welcome.

Dr. Coppola
